

In the news: Director Terry Hawkins hired to help with school finance projects

Director Terry Hawkins is chair of the Public Finance Practice Group where he has more than 33 years experience in municipal finance projects.

Phillips Murrah Director Terry Hawkins was featured in the Claremore Daily Progress newspaper in relation to $2.4 million in building bonds being issued to build and renovate schools and related projects.

In the story, "School board sets date for sale of building bonds," reporter Mark Friedel wrote:

The $2.4 million in building bonds is part of the $42.645 million bond issue passed by school district voters in November 2007 for the construction of Catalayah Elementary and the new high school gymnasium, as well as Lantow Field additions and other renovations throughout the district.

The bonds will become due in the amount of $600,000 two years from their date and $600,000 annually each year following until paid.

Board members approved the employment of Terry L. Hawkins with Phillips Murrah P.C., of Oklahoma City, as bond counsel for the issuance of bonds.
