Phillips Murrah Director Nicholle Jones Edwards was appointed Secretary of Positive Tomorrows, an organization aimed at helping homeless children in Oklahoma, on July 1.

"Positive Tomorrows is my favorite charity and non-profit organization," Edwards said. "As the only elementary school designated for homeless children in Oklahoma, it serves as a safe harbor for kids who struggle to have any normalcy or consistency."

Edwards also currently serves at the Board Governance Chair hoping to further the organization's mission.

"These are kids who may not see a meal until the one they receive the next day at school, may not have any clothing except that on their bodies the day they enroll at Positive Tomorrows, and who don't know the quiet respite of the same bed each night," she said. "Simply stated, this place is their sanctuary.

"All of this is part of the overall mission, of which the primary focus is for the Positive Tomorrows kiddos to receive a top-notch education."
