

Firm employees welcome Westbrook after contract negotiations

Stephanie Oseland, Accounting Controller, is pictured smiling in the crowd just behind Russell Westbrook at his conference. Photo by Chris Landsberger, The Oklahoman

Rae White,
Lisa

McAlister, and Michelle Munda get a good spot to better see Russell Westbrook as he arrives.

Russell Westbrook made an appearance at the Chesapeake Energy Arena on Aug. 4 to celebrate the extension of his contract with the Oklahoma City Thunder and to celebrate what Mayor Mick Cornett proclaimed Russell Westbrook Day.

Representatives from the Thunder put out a call to the public letting them know he would be at the arena to greet fans.

Although hot out, a group of Phillips Murrah employees made their way to join the crowd outside of the arena and waited to welcome him before he participated in a press conference.

Read more about the event and Westbrook's contract renegotiation and see more pictures at NewsOK.com

Upon arriving, Westbrook took a moment to thank everyone who showed up for showing their support.

Watch a brief video of Westbrook addressing his fans below:

https://phillipsmurrah.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/08/IMG_8419.mp4