

Firm supports Big Brothers Big Sisters 2019 Bowl for Kid's Sake campaign

Director Jennifer Miller, Director Melissa Gardner, Amy Bradt, and Director Zac Bradt wait for their turns at Bowling Night.

Months of fundraising events culminated into a night of bowling for Phillips Murrah employees, families and friends.

The Firm celebrated its annual fundraising efforts for Big Brothers Big Sisters' Bowl for Kids' Sake campaign on May 16 with a Bowling Night event at Dust Bowl Lanes.

Director Byrona Maule spearheaded the campaign, raising $4,700.

"Thank you for your generous support of Bowl for Kids' Sake. It is the biggest fundraiser for Big Brothers Big Sisters of Oklahoma. The Phillips Murrah family is just that, a family. But not everyone is blessed with a family like ours – and that is where Big Brothers Big Sisters of Oklahoma assists."

The Firm hosts a series of firm-wide events to garner support for the campaign and raise money to help the organization's cause.

"The money raised from Bowl For Kids' Sake is used to support one-to-one mentoring. Big Brothers Big Sisters evidence-based mentoring programs are designed to create positive, measurable outcomes for youth, including educational success, avoidance of risky behaviors, higher aspirations, greater confidence and better relationships. They match children, ages 6-18, ("Littles") with caring adult role models ("Bigs"). The Bigs share experiences with the Littles that expand the Littles world in new ways."
