Phillips Murrah attorneys team up for OCBA's annual chili cookoff

Another year, another recipe vying for a coveted trophy at the Oklahoma County Bar Association's annual Chili Cook-off.

Phillips Murrah attorneys competed against local law firms in OCBA's Young Lawyers Division on Feb. 28 at the Leadership Square Atrium in downtown Oklahoma City.

Representing Phillips Murrah were attorneys Cody J. Cooper, C. Eric Davis, Mark E. Hornbeek, Phoebe B. Mitchell, and Molly E. Tipton.

"I always love participating in the chili cook-off, not just because I am a very competitive person (and not a sore loser at all)," Tipton said. "I always find myself making new acquaintances that I look forward to seeing again in the court house or out and about!"

“The secret ingredient to my chili was definitely the spicy Mexican chocolate,” she said. “We had so much fun participating in the OCBA YLD chili cook-off. It is always great to come together and compete to raise money for a worthy cause like the Regional Food Bank.”

Phillips Murrah has had at least one team compete in the Chili Cook-Off each year since it first started more than ten years ago.
