

Director's personal style featured on local fashion blog

Director Nikki Edwards is featured as the inaugural author of Maz Modern's Tuesday Takeover column.

A standard is set for work attire in the legal field, but Director Nikki Edwards' fashion sense caught the eye of local blog Maz Modern.

"A colleague of mine reached out and asked if I'd be interested in writing for her new website, and I accepted," Nikki said. "I'm thankful I had a support team behind me."

Nikki was tasked with writing Maz Modern's inaugural Tuesday Takeover column, and Phillips Murrah's Family Law team used their resources to band together and shoot portraits of her around the Firm's office with just an iPhone.

Molly E. Tipton, Phillips Murrah Family Law Attorney, shared the article on social media telling readers to surround themselves with those that motivate and inspire them saying she's "proud to call this intellectual powerhouse and stylish woman" her mentor.

"As a busy working mom/litigation director at Phillips Murrah, I have less time to shop than ever; hence my wardrobe reflects a cacophony of items, which create my style," Nikki writes.

Visit Maz Modern to learn more about Nikki and find her tips for shopping local.